

PRESIDENT GIVES MEMORIAL ADDRESS

Asserts Natural Touch of Sorrow is Tinged With Re-assurance

THOUSANDS ATTEND

Memorial Day Appropriately Observed in Paris and Thruout France

CHICAGO WOMEN MARCH

WASHINGTON, May 30.—America's response to the call of liberty in the struggle of the world will hold the attention of all mankind. President Wilson said today in a memorial day address at Arlington National Cemetery. In observing the day, he said, the natural touch of sorrow is tinged with reassurance, because, knowing how the men of America have responded to the call of liberty, there is perfect assurance that the new response will come again in equal measure, with equal majesty.

The president spoke in the natural amphitheater the cemetery at a meeting arranged by the local Grand Army of the Republic and attended by a crowd of thousands. He said he did not pity the men in whose honor the ceremonies were held.

"I envy them rather," he went on, "because their's is a great work for liberty accomplished, and we are in the midst of a work unfinished, testing our strength where their strength has already been tested."

The president's action, he said, has come, "and in the providence of God America will come once more to have an opportunity to show to the world that she was born to serve mankind."

Memorial Day in France
Paris, May 30.—"Memorial Day" was appropriately observed in Paris and thruout France. A memorial service was held in the American church this morning and was attended by William G. Sharp, the American ambassador; Alexander M. Thackara, the American consul-general, the staffs of the American embassy and consulate and a large American delegation. Committees visited the cemeteries and decorated the graves of American soldiers buried here and at Cherbourg, Versailles and other points.

Chicago Women March
Chicago, May 30.—Women of patriotic organizations marched in the Memorial Day parade of the Grand Army of the Republic for the first time today. Hieretofore officials of the G. A. R. have painstakingly guarded against permitting "outside" organizations to appear in their parades but it having been decided to allow a division of the parade for the promotion of the liberty loan bonds as a patriotic display the G. A. R. opened the way to women to march. A steady drizzling rain did not deter 25,000 persons from taking part in the parade which included soldiers of the Civil war and the Indian and Spanish-American wars, boy scouts, high school cadets and other patriotic and military organizations. Thousands lined the route of parade which was reviewed from a stand at the Art Institute in Michigan avenue by Governor Frank O. Lowden, Major General Thomas H. Barry, commander of the central department of the U. S. army and other military and civil authorities.

DIRIGIBLE PROGRAM COMPLETION ASSURED

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Naval officers enthusiastic over the successful builders' trial of the first of sixteen non-rigid dirigible balloons ordered by the department two months ago said that the dirigible program now was assured of completion much sooner than had been expected.

The airship left Chicago at midnight Monday night and arrived without accident yesterday afternoon at Akron, O. The contract called for delivery within four months, but the builders will turn the first ship over for active duty in coast patrol work within less than 90 days of the date of the contract and thereafter one or more will be delivered every week. It was made under direction of the builders, the Goodyear Rubber company. Naval officials are confident that the airship will make the required forty miles an hour during her official trial trip.

The ships will be added to the coast patrol service as rapidly as they are completed. Crews are being trained at the naval aviation station at Pensacola. The new airships are expected to be an effective element of the coast defenses, particularly in the detection of submarines.

Bloomington, Ill., May 30.—Pitcher Charles Schlansker, of Grafton, Ill., has been sold by the local Three I Baseball club to the Alton club. His transfer was made necessary under the "rookie" rule. Alton released Scanlon, also a pitcher.

RIOTING BREAKS OUT AGAIN IN E. ST. LOUIS

One Negro is Shot and Three Others Beaten

Mob of Fifty Men Forms Early in the Evening and Starts Chasing Negroes Despite Efforts of Police, Special Deputies and Guardsmen.

East Saint Louis, Ill., May 30.—One negro was shot and two others were beaten when race rioting broke out for the third time in three days after dark tonight. Despite efforts of police, special deputies and national guardsmen, a mob of about 50 men formed early in the evening and started chasing negroes. The disturbances started Monday night as a protest against the wholesale importation of negro labor.

William Brane, a packing house employe was shot in the head after a chase. His condition was not considered serious.

Clayton Jerin and Charles Daggett, both negroes of the stock yards settlement were caught and beaten, then released with a warning to leave the city.

National guardsmen dispersed the mob without difficulty. M. J. Whalen, city clerk, said citizens had petitioned him to ask Governor Lowden to have the state council of defense investigate the labor conditions in East St. Louis in order to determine the cause of the wholesale importation of negroes.

One of the evidences of the vigilance of the police department was given late this afternoon when four policemen in a patrol wagon escorted a hearse containing the body of a negro thru the streets on its way to a railway station. A negro undertaker asked for the guard saying he was afraid his hearse would be wrecked otherwise.

MISS INA GIBSON WEDS MR. CHESTER COLTON

Marriage of Well Known Couple Solemnized At A. D. Gibson Home Near Franklin.

In a pretty ceremony which took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gibson, southwest of Franklin, Miss Ina Irene Gibson, their daughter, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Chester Colton of Woodson. The ceremony was said at 8 o'clock by the Rev. W. E. Keenan, pastor of Franklin circuit, who used the ring service in pronouncing the words which united the lives of the two young people. The couple were attended by Miss Ola Gibson, sister of the bride and Mr. James Raymond Baxter, of Woodson, a friend of the groom. The ceremony was said beneath a wreath of locust blossoms as the couple stood before a bank of white and green. Mrs. William Schofield, sister of the groom played the Traumeri of Verdi and the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin and crepe de chine and wore a veil. Her bridesmaid was gowned in white satin and voile. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms and her attendant bore a spray of Ward roses.

A luncheon of two courses was served in the dining room where there had been secured a pleasing color effect of pink and white. A large wedding cake, baked by the bride, was served the guests. Little Miss Ethel Bland assisted in the serving.

The young people will be absent for a brief wedding journey only and soon after their return will leave for a more extended trip to Kansas. They will make their home in Woodson, where the groom was recently employed as principal of the school. Mr. Colton is a graduate of Whipple academy and has many friends in Jacksonville as well as in Woodson, where he has made his home. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Colton. Since completing his course in Jacksonville he has been engaged in teaching, rising steadily in his chosen profession and gaining the respect of all for his genial manner and continued habits of industry.

Mrs. Colton is a young woman of charming ways and winning personality. She was reared in the Franklin vicinity and was for a time in Jacksonville for a course of study at Illinois college. She is a graduate of Franklin high school. For one term she was a teacher at Murrayville and for a two-year period she held a position in the Mercedia schools. Countless friends will join in wishing her a wedded life of happiness unalloyed.

TENTONIC DELEGATES OPPOSE ANNEXATIONS

STOCKHOLM, May 30.—via London.—The peace program of the Austrian and German delegates to the Socialist conference to be held here as formulated in a group conference, provides for no annexations, no indemnities and restitution of mechanical means which may be employed in maritime and air warfare.

The delegates go on record as opposing the annexation of Belgium and declare themselves as "being friendly to Serbia's independence, which state, by joining with Montenegro can assure itself of an outlet to the sea."

They declare that the Balkan states should arrange their own internal affairs without outside interference.

The future of Alsace and Lorraine is not mentioned. The Czech, Polish and Bosnian delegates attended the group conference but did not join in the program. They will formulate their own program later.

Representatives of the grand vizier and foreign and finance ministers said farewell to the party at the station.

VILLA HOLDS PORT OPPOSITE U. S. TOWN

Bandit Force of Approximately 200 Captures Ojinaga

Only a Handful of Mexican Federal Forces Occupied the Town, the Others Having Gone to Engage Villa Command Encamped at La Mula Pass.

Presidio, Texas, May 30.—Francisco Villa tonight holds a border port opposite an American town and again United States troops are patrolling the border while Villa cavalrymen are silhouetted against the night sky on the southern bank of the Rio Grande. At 5 o'clock this morning approximately 200 Villa followers dashed into the little border town of Ojinaga opposite here, shouting "viva Villa" and shooting right and left as they rode. Only a handful of Mexican government forces occupied the town, General G. Figueroa, General Garcia and Colonel Riojas having gone out Sunday night to engage the Villa command which was encamped in La Mula Pass, 35 miles south of the border. These forces are expected to return tonight and make a desperate effort to drive the Villa troops from the town.

Fifty of the government force of 75 men left in Ojinaga succeeded in escaping across the river to Presidio. Of the 25 government soldiers remaining 16 were killed during the fighting, six were taken prisoner and the remainder were wounded.

The battle lasted two hours after which the shops and homes of the Ojinaga residents were looted. Whether Villa was with his troops has not been confirmed. No one was permitted to cross to the Mexican side tonight.

About three hundred refugees have crossed from Ojinaga and are camped tonight near the river. According to these people the Villistas began the attack by hurling home made hand grenades into the houses. Witnesses of the fighting say that twenty-five government soldiers were killed in the fight. Two soldiers who were taken prisoners were executed, they said.

EIGHTEEN BRITISH SHIPS SUNK IN WEEK

LONDON, May 30.—Eighteen British merchant vessels of more than 1,600 tons were sunk during the past week it was officially announced tonight. One vessel of less than 1,600 tons and two fishing vessels were sunk.

The text of the announcement reads: "Weekly summary. Arrivals 2,719; sailings, 2,768. 'British merchant vessels sunk by mines or submarines over 1,600 tons, eighteen; under 1,600 tons, 1.' 'British merchant vessels unsuccessfully attacked, including one previously reported, 17. 'British fishing vessels sunk, 2.' The report invariably includes all mercantile tonnage known to have been sunk by mine or submarine, whether employed by the government or otherwise.

The losses of British shipping from the submarine war as reported this week total 21, as compared with a total of 20 lost in the previous week. While the losses of vessels exceeding 1,600 tons each remain the same as in the last previous report the number of vessels of less than 1,600 tons is reduced from nine to only one. The number of fishing vessels is reduced from 3 to 2.

New York, May 30.—More than $80,000, sufficient to purchase and equip fifty ambulance units was raised thru the medium of Red Cross benefit tournaments held today under the auspices of the eighty clubs of the Metropolitan Golf association. Approximately 9,000 golfers took part in the tournaments.

WAR TAX MEASURE TAKES ROUGH FORM

Chairman Simmons Works All Thru Holiday With Treasury Experts

TOTALS $1,460,000,000

Measure Aggregating Slightly Above $1,500,000,000 Now Generally Expected

RESUME WORK TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The war tax bill today assumed rough but nearly final form in the revision of the $1,800,000,000 house measure by the senate finance committee.

After working all thru the holiday with treasury experts, Chairman Simmons announced that as re-drafted the estimated revenue to be brought in by the bill now totals $1,460,000,000. A bill aggregating slightly above $1,500,000,000 now is generally expected.

In resuming its conferences tomorrow the committee will take up minor tax schedules, having decided virtually all basic changes. A few more days will be required to make technical changes and Senator Simmons hopes to be able to introduce the re-drafted measure in the senate by the middle of next week for immediate consideration.

On the basis of the committee's work thus far income, excess profits, liquor, tobacco, special excise, or consumption, and stamp taxes are the principal revenue sources. The bill has definitely cut out of the house bill tax levies aggregating $225,000,000 and much more tentatively has been eliminated.

Taxation of newspapers, magazines and other publications having the second class or cent a pound mailing rate will be taken up tomorrow. Postmaster General Burleson today urged Senator Simmons to support Senator Hardwick's plan for retaining the one cent postage rate on news portions of the publications but taxing the parts devoted to advertising.

Levy Will Not Be Burdensome.
The committee, Senator Simmons said, feels that some share of the tax burden should be placed upon the publications enjoying postage rates less than actual cost of transportation but it will not impose a burdensome levy. Should the Hardwick plan as offered or modified be adopted, Senator Simmons said the two percent tax upon all advertising previously approved by the committee would be changed.

Committee sentiment is said to favor retention of the doubled taxes imposed by the house on distilled spirits and beer, both as a revenue and to a degree as a war prohibition measure. These liquor schedules, it was said, probably will be changed little if at all.

ITALIAN MONARCH THANKS PRINCE

Asserts Welcome Accorded Mission by U. S. is a Sure Omen for Ever Increasing Intimacy and Mutual Interest.

Washington, May 30.—King Victor Emmanuel, in a cablegram today from the Italian front to the Prince of Udine, chief of Italy's war mission to the United States thanked the prince for a recent message of congratulations upon victories over the Austrians and said the welcome accorded the mission by America was a sure omen for ever increasing intimacy and mutual trust between the two countries.

"I have read with deep satisfaction," the king said, "the message which your royal highness wired me in the name of the Italian mission to the United States of America to congratulate on the deeds gloriously accomplished by our national army."

"From the mighty co-operation of the great American republic, Italy draws renewed strength to prosecute with the force of arms and sacrifice the arduous struggle for the triumph of justice in the world, the only possible foundation of lasting peace."

"I am glad indeed to learn from your royal highness the heartfelt welcome the mission has received, a sure omen for ever increasing intimacy and mutual trust between the two countries."

DEMAND PRESIDENT CANCEL MANDATE

PEKING, May 30.—Numerous military governors have demanded the cancellation of the presidential mandate dismissing Tian Chi-Jui from the premiership, considering the president's action unconstitutional. Li Ching-Hsi, whose nomination as successor to Tuan was approved by the senate has refused to accept the premiership. The military governors of Honan, Anhwei and Shantung provinces and at Mukden have threatened to declare their independence unless their demands for the cancellation of the mandate are conceded.

APPEAL TO WOMEN TO WORK FOR LOAN

WASHINGTON, May 30.—An appeal to all American women to make personal campaigns for the sale of liberty bonds was issued tonight by woman's liberty loan committee of which Mrs. W. G. McDade is chairman. The committee is arranging to launch a whirlwind campaign in the larger cities during the last week of the subscription books will remain open as is utilizing the facilities of mail order and wholesale establishments to address a country-wide appeal to women to aid in the work.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad has subscribed for $5,000,000 of the bonds, it is announced.

OFFICIALS TO WATCH MEETINGS CLOSELY

Department of Justice Issues Special Orders

Authorities Instructed to Prepare to Arrest Any Speakers Who Encourage Violations of Censorship Law—Attorney General Makes Announcement

Washington, May 30.—Special orders were given government officials thruout the country today to keep close watch upon meetings at which there is likely to be agitation against registration under the war army act, and prepare to arrest speakers who encourage violations of the law.

Regard Influences as Local.
Altho the department of justice is satisfied that German influence and money is behind efforts in various sections to interfere with registration, it is officially stated that the influences are regarded as local and sporadic and not inspired by any serious organized effort.

Thru the committee on public information, Attorney General Gregory tonight made this announcement:

"The department of justice today communicated instructions by telegraph or long distance telephone to its officers and agents in communities wherever meetings are likely to be held at which agitation against registration as prescribed in the new army bill might be indulged in. The United States attorneys and marshals were directed to be present or reported at the meetings and to have stenographic reports made of the addresses delivered."

To Go Over Reports Carefully.
These reports will be gone over carefully and arrests will be made later in all instances in which the utterances of the speakers are calculated to discourage registration or to influence individuals to attempting to evade the provisions of the law.

"The United States attorneys and marshals were also directed to ask close co-operation of the local police authorities in each community. "From the reports being made daily by the agents thruout the country officials of the department are convinced that such threats to resist registration as are being made are the result of local and sporadic influences and are not inspired by any organized effort of serious consequence."

ORDER THREE TO REPORT FOR ACTIVE DETAIL

Members of Fort Sheridan Camp To Report to Commanding General of Eastern Department.

Fort Sheridan, Ill., May 30.—Three members of the officers reserve corps in training here were ordered today to report June 5 to the commanding general of the eastern department for active detail. They were Lyle H. Gift, Peoria, Ill., first lieutenant, and Harry M. Gray, Joliet, Ill., and Richard P. Hildreth, Chicago, second lieutenants.

Gift was educated at the University of Illinois where he was a major in the cadet corps and Hildreth came from the University of Wisconsin.

The program for the second round of instruction of the 5,000 candidates for army commissions was made public today. It introduces among other items the most ghastly elements of European warfare—grenade fighting, chlorine gas and tear shells. Other instruction includes sapping, mining and barraging fire.

By June 18 it is calculated that the students should themselves be able to instruct others in elementary matters of drill.

The camp is not exempt from conscription registration which began this afternoon. Two men of Company F of the Wisconsin-Michigan contingent occasioned surprise by claiming exemption. One had a stiff knee he said and the other said he was only 22 years, 5 months of age.

This man, like the others previously had made oath that he was 21 years of age or older.

SLATE ROOF MEN BEFORE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Vermont Slate Roof manufacturers told the interstate commerce commission today that they will virtually be forced out of business if the railroad rates are granted a fifteen percent rate increase.

Representatives of several other industries thruout the country protested against the increase at today's hearings and predicted curtailment of business or failure if it were granted. Among these were Southern Lumber, fruit and fertilizer dealers and producers, middlewestern paying brick and light and power industries. The hearings are being rushed to permit submission of a great mass of evidence and argument before June 12th.

Tomorrow protests will be heard from state railway commissions of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota and Louisiana.

T. R. URGES NEIGHBORS TO STAND UPON DEEDS

Colonel Tells Them to Think in Terms of Service

Former President Asserts "That Universal Service is a Necessary Corollary to Universal Suffrage"—Must Be Undivided Loyalty to Flag

Minneapolis, N. Y., May 30.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, addressing several thousand of his Nassau county "neighbors" at the fair grounds here today, appealed to them "to come to the front in an eager desire to serve with their bodies, with every quality of their soul and spirit and mind, with their service, labor and military skill and not stand upon words, but on deeds, for the one flag that floats over us—that flag which holds in its folds the future glory of mankind. "Do not think in terms of self sacrifice, but in terms of service," said Colonel Roosevelt. "I do not pity a man who has a chance to risk his life for his country. I envy him."

"There must be absolute and undivided loyalty to our flag. The events of the past two years have shown that no man can be any more loyal to two flags than to two wives."

The former president asserted "that universal service is a necessary corollary to universal suffrage." "I believe in suffrage," he said, "but not for suffrage for any woman thinking her duty and I will work for the disfranchisement of any man or woman who doesn't work in peace or in war in any service the government may demand."

"We hear, of course, of conscientious objection to fighting. I do not ask man to violate his conscience, but I will not stand for him violating mine either. If any man is too conscientious to fight, he ought to take his conscience out and look at it, for it is certainly sick."

"The first duty of a man, the colonel added, is to be a 'man's man, not just a sexless creature who wants somebody to fight for him.' He urged those present, as a patriotic duty to subscribe for Liberty bonds.

"The bonds will be safe unless Uncle Sam smashes up," said the former president, "and if the United States smashes up we will all be smashed up and it won't make any difference whether the bonds will be good or bad."

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

The Battle Front. From Gorizia southward toward the head of the Gulf of Trieste remains the only theater where for the moment hard fighting is in progress. Even here, however, the intensity which characterized the operations last week is lacking.

On the front in France operations consist mainly of maneuvers by small raiding parties and artillery duels of a moderate degree of strength. Wednesday passed without infantry engagements between the French and Germans, altho their respective guns took part in a spirited artillery duels to the south of St. Quentin and in Champagne.

The Russians and Austrians in the eastern theater are fighting in more lively fashion than has been the case for months, particularly in East Galicia.

Between Jamiano and the head of the Gulf of Trieste the Italians have occupied positions west of the village of Medezana thereby bringing their right wing closed toward Duino and railway line lead toward Trieste. The Austrian war office reports the repulse of Italian attacks near Jamiano while a similar claim is made by Rome for the Italians with regard to Austrian attacks to the north on Julian front.

The Weekly Report of British ships sunk by submarines shows that eighteen vessels over 1,600 tons—the same as reported the previous week—went to the bottom but that only one vessel of less than 1,600 tons met with disaster, a decrease of eight over the record of the previous week.

In Addition to the unsettled political situation in Russia the latest phase of which is the reiteration by the organ of the soldiers and workers' delegates of the policy of no indemnities or territorial aggrandizement, Russia is facing a serious economic situation. The food minister has informed the congress of officers delegates that the wheat shipments are still far from normal, that peasants were suspicious of paper money and that the iron supply is far short of the requirements of the munitions factories.

Unless great sacrifices were made by the people, he said Russia is on the eve of a catastrophe.

INJURED TO DESOTA

BULLETIN.
DE SOTO, Mo., May 31.—Three persons were killed and several injured in a tornado at Palmer about 20 miles southwest of here early last night according to reports received here. Only one man Herman Allen, Jr., has been identified.

BULLETIN.
CAIRO, Ill., May 30.—Two persons were killed, another injured fatally and at least fifteen hurt more or less seriously in a tornado that dipped into Alexander county, north of Cairo, early last night (Wednesday).

Many farm houses and barns were destroyed and property damage will aggregate thousands of dollars.

The wind sucked up a ten ton road roller and whirled it for fifty feet before it was dropped. Wires were down and a report that two persons had been killed at Diehlstadt, Mo., could not be verified.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 30.—A tornado twisted into Mineral Point, Mo., a village of about 300 inhabitants, this afternoon, killed four persons and injured thirty, demolished the entire town with the exception of the school house and then twisted southward to Eye, where Fred Harper, a farmer, was killed by flying debris.

A local Iron Mountain passenger train bore the most seriously injured to DeSoto, about fifteen miles north of Mineral Point.

The Dead.
Thomas LeMasters, Iron Mountain conductor.
August Boone, Iron Mountain signal man.
Frank Goss, four years old.
Frank LeChamp.
Fred Harper, Eye, Mo.

The Seriously Injured.
Mrs. John Golden and five other men.
Mrs. Jolly, Potosi.
Charles Long, Festus.
Harry Ambuchon and two sons.
—Chedony, Chicago.

Buster Howard, son of Henry Howard, editor DeSoto Press.
Louis Bloom.
Mrs. August Boone.
Mrs. Rose Hill, two sons and two daughters.
H. E. Williams.
Father Patrick J. O'Connor, St. Louis, injured internally.
Father Charles Leary, St. Louis, injured internally.

Two coaches of an Iron Mountain local running between Mineral Point and Potosi were blown from the track and it was in this wreckage that Conductor LeMasters and Flagman Boone met death. The report received here did not state whether Baby Goss was killed in this wreckage, but it is presumed the child was on the train as its body was taken to DeSoto with those of LeMasters and Boone on a relief train. LeChamp died shortly after the train reached DeSoto.

Fit Up Emergency Hospital.
The injured were cared for in DeSoto in an emergency hospital fitted up in the railroad Y. M. C. A. building. Doctors have been sent from St. Louis to aid in the work there. Relief to the homeless in Mineral Point was given by surrounding towns. Many were taken to DeSoto and Potosi in automobiles, but owing to the almost impassible condition of the roads, the work was slow.

Mineral Point is about 75 miles south of St. Louis. The storm struck the village about 3 o'clock. Wire communication was cut off almost entirely, the first report reaching here over the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain line.

Later telephonic communication was established with DeSoto. Two thousand picnics, who it was feared might have been in the path of the storm south of Mineral Point, evidently escaped uninjured as efforts to confirm rumors of casualties proved futile.

Storm Strikes Rich Hill.
Rich Hill, Mo., May 30.—A small tornado struck this vicinity late today. Some damage is reported from the outlying districts.

CONFERENCE REGARDING EVIDENCE

Chicago, May 30.—Federal officials conferred today on the presentation of evidence to the grand jury in the alleged plot to hinder the draft on June 5. Information concerning the three men and two women who are under detention for alleged complicity in the conspiracy was withheld. The five again were subjected to questioning as were several others believed by the authorities to have knowledge of what is said to be a widespread conspiracy.

MISSOURI BANKERS

The bankers of Missouri are in a mix-up over proposed legislation. At a meeting of the state association in St. Joseph recently the association went on record as in favor of national prohibition during the war. Now it seems that St. Louis bankers are voicing their disapproval of the action taken by the state association. If one looks over the list of directors of the St. Louis banks they will see nothing surprising in this opposition for those lists contain the names of many St. Louis capitalists who are directly interested in the liquor business in one way or another.

REGISTRATION DAY PARADE

Registration day is Tuesday, June 5. If any effort is to be made in this city or county for a special patriotic observance of the day it is certainly time their plans were made. In St. Louis 1,000 persons have already pledged themselves to take part in a parade. Chicago has planned for a monster demonstration and in various Illinois cities—some of them larger and some of them smaller than Jacksonville—the patriotic plans for the day are well under way. Why doesn't Jacksonville join the ranks?

GERMAN CITY OF MAINZ

In a recent bulletin issued by the National Geographical Society concerning this ancient city, now a German fortress, and in which food riots have recently occurred, the Society tells many things of interest concerning the place—its location, its chief industries, its political importance and military strength—but very singularly omits all mention of the chief glory of Mainz, the fact that it was the home of Johannes Gutenberg, the inventor of printing, and that there, in the middle of the fifteenth century, the first copy of a printed Bible came from the press. How a matter of such stupendous importance could have been overlooked by so learned a body of men as the National Geographical Society is very strange and ought not to pass unchallenged.

WISCONSIN COUNTIES IN COMMENDABLE CONTEST

In the progressive state of Wisconsin it is said that every county has entered into a competition as to which shall be the first to file a report following the registration of men eligible to war service June 5. As a result of this organization, which has been fostered by the state council of defense, it is said the governor of the state hopes to wire his report to President Wilson by 10 o'clock on the evening of June 5. The spirit thus manifested is certainly commendable but anyone who has looked at the blanks which the registrars must fill out and summarize after the registration work has been completed will certainly doubt the possibility of any compilation of county records that night. The forms to be filled out are more complicated than those used for elections and everyone knows the hours of work which await election officials after the polls have closed.

LAND PRICES

Evidence is already at hand in land sales held in various Illinois cities that the high prices for farm products are enhancing the value of farm lands. A farm located near Macon in Macon county sold the other day at $265.50 an acre cash. The land is good but the improvements are said to be below the average. With every prospect of continued high prices the farm lands of central Illinois will continue to advance. In this county possibly the advances will not keep pace with those in McLean, Macon, Champagne, Livingston and some other counties, but the land qualities here are fully equal to those in the counties mentioned.

Farming is freer from taxes than any other line of business and farm investments are certainly destined to be more attractive in coming days even than at present.

BEWARE OF ADVICE AGAINST REGISTRATION

The government is letting it be known in no uncertain terms that the provisions of the registration law must be fully complied with. Furthermore, it has been announced that not only will the man who fails to register be subject to punishment, but any citizen who advises against registration and seeks to interfere with the operation of the law will also be subject to federal punishment. Already arrests have been made in several cities of men said to be engaged in an effort to discourage registration and firm insistence on the part of the government on observance of the terms of the registration law and firmness in the punishment of those who evade and the others who advise evasion, will go a long way toward impressing the people with the seriousness of the present situation. It is safe to say that at present only a small percentage of the people really realize that the U. S. is now engaged in a serious war—a war which in all probability will be waged by years rather than by months. Something must be done to thoroughly awaken the people and strictness on the part of the government in punishing those whose conduct borders on treason will accomplish much in this regard.

THE JURY LISTS

The statement in yesterday's Journal that the drawing of Morgan county jury lists for years past has not been above criticism was not leveled at any individual county officer. It was intended as comment upon the fact that in times past there has often seemed to be a remarkable similarity between jury lists when compared year by year.

One who is in position to know declared yesterday that while it may be true that the same persons are sometimes called upon for jury service in successive years, that the law governing the drawing of lists from the jury box is strictly observed. This law requires that after the county board has selected a list comprising one-tenth of the total male voting population, that any jury panels needed shall be drawn from this list after the names have been placed in a box in the custody of the county clerk. The law provides that the names of jurors who are to serve in the circuit court must be drawn from this box by the circuit clerk blindfolded and in the presence of the county clerk. In the case of county court jurors, the names must be drawn in the same way by the county clerk, blindfolded and in the presence of the county judge.

The law is very specific in this matter and the details have been carried out by county officials. The similarity in the names of grand jurors is accounted for by the fact that these jurors are named by the county board and no selective system is required.

THE BENEFIT OF WORKING TOGETHER

Various newspaper comments have been made in commending the people of Mattoon for the promptness in which they organized their relief work. It is said that within an hour after the disaster that business men of the town began an organized effort to give aid in the places of greatest need and to protect the city food supply and to meet in general the problems naturally arising from such a disaster. The leaders of this organization realized that all their problems would not be with the people at home, for they knew that within a few hours thousands of sightseers would be coming from other cities. So they speedily adopted a plan whereby all of the food supply was to be conserved for residents, and sightseers and the merely curious were not permitted to buy foodstuffs of any kind.

This is but one example of the wisdom and thought that the Mattoon citizens used in meeting the big problems so suddenly thrust upon them. It was executive ability and willingness to work together which accomplished this thing in Mattoon. Just to what extent the spirit of co-operation prevailed before in Mattoon is not recorded. Perhaps it will take a cyclone or some other form of disaster to bring the people of Jacksonville into a full realization of the benefits of co-operative effort. If disaster would teach people here how much more can be accomplished by working together than is done by pulling in different directions disaster might in reality prove a blessing.

GERMAN SUFFRAGE METHODS

When we compare election methods in Germany with those in vogue in this republic it is easy to understand why the Kaiser has often declared during recent months that new rights will be given the people after the war and that they will be allowed to participate more in the affairs of state. A writer in the World's Work gives the records to show how the influence of citizens varies with the amount of taxes they pay. This makes an interesting study just at this time, when special war taxes are to be levied upon Americans. If we had the German system here one or two hundred of our multi-millionaires would have more to do with the selection of officials than thousands—yes, millions—of their fellow citizens who did not happen to be wealthy.

The article referred to gives these facts about Germany's suffrage methods: "Prussia the voters are divided into three classes, according to the amount of taxes they pay. In each electoral district the total amount of taxes paid is divided into three equal parts. Those citizens whose combined taxes represent one-third of the whole choose one-third of the electors. Those who pay the next one-third choose a third, and the next, who make up the mass of the population, choose the remaining third. In one district in Berlin, three citizens pay one-third of the taxes, eight citizens pay another third and 294 pay the remaining third. Thus the three men in the first class choose as many electors as the 294 in the third.

"The election of 1903, when the Social Democrats first contested seats in the Prussian lower house, concretely illustrates how this system works. They cast 314,145 votes and the conservatives cast 324,517. The Social Democrats did not elect a single representative, while their opponents elected 143. In the last election preceding the war, the Social Democrats cast 24 per cent of the vote and elected seven members in a house of 420.

"Practically this same system with certain modifications, prevails in all the German states, with the exception of the Mecklenburgs, which have no representative chambers at all, their present system being a clear survival of medieval institutions."

Cheer Up

Though days of strife be drawing near, though war may last for many a year, it is not well to yield to fear; cheer up! Don't let your optimism fade; you give the foe untimely aid when of your fears you make parade; cheer up! I have three uncles bearing arms; mine cousins went to war's alarms, and yet my smile retains its charms; cheer up! They say we'll soon be short of meat, we'll be deprived of corn and wheat, but while we have enough to eat, cheer up! They say we'll bear upon our backs the burden of a frightful tax; just now no man that burden packs, cheer up! They're saying this, and saying that, designed to knock our spirits flat, and "they" are talking through a hat—cheer up! Don't cross a bridge until you're there; don't look until your cupboard's bare; cheer ahead to borrow care; don't starve up! Don't try to chill the hopeful chap; you'll never help him win a scrap by having tears upon your map; cheer up. Just now we feel no talk of gloom, no prophecies of dole and doom; be cheerful as the flowers in bloom—cheer up!

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

May 31, 1844—Ichabod Coddington, noted underground railroad operator, attempted to deliver a lecture in the entry of the state house on the abolition of slavery, was interrupted with noises made by boys blowing horns, throwing sticks and other annoyances but gave the lecture on Saturday afternoon without interruption.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, after a successful concert tour of the south, singing for the benefit of the Red Cross, is extending her activities in that respect to diverse parts of the country. She sang at a concert last week, May 25, in New York, where Padrowski, the famous pianist, also appeared, and on June 6 she will sing in Minneapolis. The demand for overalls for women workers is general, not only among factory and garden workers, but among maids doing housework. It has been predicted that before the end of the war this garb will have been almost exclusively adopted by the women toilers of America, as it has been by their English sisters in cotton mills at New Bedford, Mass., the management itself fitted out all the women mill workers of that city are now clamoring for their better protection and improved efficiency while working amidst fast moving machinery.

The National Sylvan Theater, an outdoor theater built by the United States Government, the first institution of its kind in the country, will be dedicated June 1 at Washington, and the festival presiding the government to build a playhouse for the people, such as are already in use in France, Germany, Russia and Austria. Another continental countries, was the work of a woman, Mrs. Christina Hennick, herself a resident of the National capital. Mrs. Hennick has lived much abroad and has seen the effect of government owned theaters upon the public at large and its taste. Knowing that the time was not fully ripe for the establishment of subsidized theaters by the state, Mrs. Hennick nevertheless started things rolling for Congress to include an outdoor theater in its appropriation a year ago for the beautifying of Washington. The National Sylvan Theater, built in the beautiful Monument Grounds, is the result of her tireless efforts along these lines. Players of national reputation, including Placido Domingo, Jullia Marlowe and Margaret Anglin, will appear on the opening night.

Mrs. William G. McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury and youngest daughter of President Wilson, is the chairman of the women's liberty loan committee, organized to co-operate with the government in placing the $2,000,000 Liberty Loan, in whose behalf Mrs. McAdoo and her touring company are on a speaking tour. The women's committee will work to enlist the activities of women and women's organizations throughout the country. Other prominent women serving with Mrs. McAdoo are Mrs. George Bass and Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Chicago; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York; Mrs. J. C. Miller of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Guilford Dudley of Nashville; Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey of Independence, Kansas, the newly elected president of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks of Chicago; Mrs. Frank H. Vaunder of New York; and Mrs. Frank H. Haginson of Boston. The plan is to organize the country by States. Hundreds of women speakers will tour the country these coming weeks in behalf of the movement and in the sale and distribution of the securities.

"The history of what women did in the Chinese Revolution," writes Gardner L. Hanford in the Great News and Comment, "has never been written and by most foreigners it has never been understood. It is a story of the Chinese women getting measured for their uniforms and going up to fight at Nanking and Hankow. We heard of turbulent crowds of women in outdoor meetings flinging their jewelry on the platform for the war chest of the revolutionaries; we heard of women bomb throwers, of women spies, of women members of the 'Dare to Die' corps, and of a dozen other picturesque and spirited activities with which women contributed a new spontaneous energy to Chinese life during 1911 and 1912. But of the leadership which gave these things an interpretative relation to the Chinese people as a whole, we did not then have. It is only now, when we have direct information at all. There was such a leadership, created in individual women, and in groups of women by the vivid and infectious atmosphere of the time, but it was so perfectly spontaneous on the part of the women who responded to it, and its effects were so secured by the broader strokes of the political revolution that we have never identified them sympathetically, though we have measured them by the worth a better acquaintance. It is well to recall here that the first constitution of the Republic was revised in recognition of the work of the women during the revolution, granted them full equality of suffrage with men.

OUSSA DRY FOR FIRST TIME

Odessa, Russia, May—Odessa is dry for the first time in its history. The consumption of spirituous liquors has been technically forbidden since the early days of the war, but police enforcement of the ordinance was lax, and the traffic was never completely suppressed until the new revolutionary regime took control of the city. All the old police were disbanded and enrolled in the army, while their places were taken by local constables enlisted from the veteran soldiers, students and citizens. This constabulary displayed the most commendable energy in the first days of their new offices in ferreting out and sealing up all stocks of liquors, and ever since their crusade, Odessa has enjoyed the results of enforced sobriety.

OLD JACKSONVILLE

The Porter-Clay-Sanders Place

By Ensley Moore

(Member of Illinois Historical Society.)

No Kentucky family has been more distinguished than the Clays. Another of the most distinguished was the Hardin family.

These two great houses were united here in Jacksonville.

Henry Clay.

The great Commoner, was born in Hanover county, Virginia, where his brother, Porter Clay, was also born. The date of the birth of the younger being in March, 1779.

They were the sons of a Baptist minister, who died when Henry was four years of age, leaving his family without any fortune. Henry became a legislator, member of Congress, cabinet officer, declined an ambassadorship, was elected and re-elected Speaker of the National house of representatives, and elected and re-elected U. S. Senator. He was a peace commissioner settling the War of 1812, and the great Whig leader in this land. In this capacity he was like Blaine—almost a standing candidate for the Presidency, and had his party nomination two or three times. He was a man of charming manner, and very eloquent. But he was never to be President, although much abler than most of those who acquired that high office in his day.

Porter Clay.

was a worthy brother of this great leader, although of a quieter spirit. He came to Kentucky, was several times elected State Auditor, and seemed to have a political career before him. But he was converted, and gave up political ambition to become a Baptist minister.

Gen. Martin D. Hardin.

of Kentucky was the son of John Hardin of Virginia who was a Revolutionary soldier and Indian fighter. M. D.'s cousin, Benjamin had been an office holder in the state, was a distinguished debater, and was a member of Congress.

These statements regarding the Clays and the Hardins will show the great prestige of the two families, alone.

Martin D. Hardin died quite young, leaving a widow, Elizabeth, by name, with several children, and with the management of a large but badly involved estate. She would not give up the task of securing the patrimony for her children, but after a long struggle won out with a fortune.

Elizabeth Hardin

was the mother of our Col. John J. Hardin, and she was a very able, remarkable and ambitious woman. She raised her family, and they came here in about the year 1830. John J. Hardin having become a lawyer, and afterwards becoming one of the leaders of politics in the Whig party in Illinois, and in the nation, for he was a member of the legislature of Congress, and the compeer of Edward D. Baker and Abraham Lincoln, all three of them being sent to Congress from this district, all three being ambitious to the highest degree, and all three dying for their country.

When Hardin fell, at Buena Vista, Mexico, his cousin, Henry Clay also fell.

John J.'s son, Gen. Martin D. Hardin, of the Union army, was terribly wounded at Antietam.

It was for Mrs. Elizabeth Hardin to unite the two great families of the Hardins and the Clays by her marriage with Porter Clay. This must have occurred about 1825 to 1830, for March 23, 1833 Samuel D. Lockwood sold six acres of land here to Porter and Elizabeth Clay, really to her.

This tract covered about what is now the block south of State street to College Avenue, and west from Prospect to Park street. The Clays must soon have built their home, which was a part of the house now known as the Sanders place on West State street.

Originally, the house fronting east was of one story, of colonial design, with about five rooms. West of this was the cooking department, in another building, after the Southern custom. The southern rooms of the house today show the early style of arrangement and architecture, and are among the few such in Illinois.

Miss Sarah Allen, sister of Mrs. M. P. Ayers and Mrs. D. A. Smith, stated that a driveway at first led up to the Clay house from Prospect street, a distance of from two to four hundred feet.

The two story parts of the house are later additions.

The Clays had wealthy furnishings and ways, and the Duncan and Clay house, and John J. Hardin's, where Passavant hospital is now, were the great places of Old Jacksonville.

For some reason the Rev. Porter Clay left here, went to Arkansas, where he quietly pursued his high calling as a minister, and where he died in 1850, and was buried in the cemetery of the little town of Camden.

It is likely that Henry Clay was a visitor at his brother's place, and quite probable that Daniel Webster was a guest there at the time of his visit to this town, in 1837. So those who are interested in resorts of the great may look with longing eye on the old house.

There is said to have been much of romance of a proper sort so far as Mr. Clay, which the reader can imagine for his or her self.

A Beautiful Place.

No one need be told how attractive the old place is to look upon, and it is the show ground of our city.

Nov. 6, 1849, Mrs. Clay sold her home to Albert G. Caldwell in the name of his wife, Eleanor C. Caldwell. She in turn conveyed it to Edward I. Enos, June 25, 1854.

The Enos.

Mr. Enos platted the six acres, more or less, as Enos's addition, being the block above described, substantially. He lived there till 1861, but he transferred the Clay house to M. P. and A. E. Ayers, July 2, 1860. For a short time the place was occupied by the Hon. Wm. P. Barr, a scion of another old family of Illinois.

Frank Arenz, an employee of Dan Keating was the victim of a bold highway robbery about 8:20 o'clock Wednesday evening. Arenz was walking in North Main street and when passing the plant of Swift & Co., two men grabbed him and pulled him under the shed adjacent to the main building where wagons are loaded.

A gun was shoved under his nose and he was relieved of $2 in money. Arenz was badly frightened when he reported the robbery to the police and could not give a good description of the holdup men. He said they wore heavy set and wore slouch hats. The police were unable to get any trace of the men and it is thought they were strangers.

Preparations are under way for a flag raising at Alexander, when a large wooden flag will be flown from a seventy-foot pole, now ready for erection in the park. Funds for the purchase of the flag and pole were raised by popular subscription. No one was permitted to contribute more than ten cents, but the money was secured without trouble.

The office rooms of the company are undergoing enlargement. Interior painting has been completed and other improvements are being made.

F. J. ANDREWS BELIEVES IN STORM INSURANCE

F. J. Andrews returned yesterday from Charleston, where he was summoned on account of the storm damage done to the Andrews lumber yard there. Mr. Andrews said that the firm carried $3,000 windstorm insurance and that the loss will be approximately $9,000. He has, therefore, become a firm advocate of windstorm insurance and only regrets that the firm did not carry a larger amount on the Charleston yard. It goes without saying that the windstorm insurance on the yards owned by the Andrews Co. will now be materially increased.

AVIATION FIELD IS SCENE OF ACTIVITY

Living Quarters for Men Soon to be Erected at Ashburn Station—Study and Practice Term Averages About Five Months—Daily Flying Periods Brief

Chicago, May 30.—One of the busiest centers of activity just now in connection with the training of men for service in the United States army is the aviation field at Ashburn, a part of Chicago, about twelve miles southwest of the central part of the city. At this station fifty-five men are being taught how to manipulate a bi-plane. Nine instructors have been detailed on this work. Twenty-eight machines, each of 100 horse-power, are in use.

The aviation field is a plot one mile square, as smooth and level as a table top and with no trees or other obstructions to handicap the flyers. At present no living quarters for the men in training have been erected but they are being planned and will be built soon. For the time being the aviation students are finding homes at lodging houses and in private residences in the neighborhood.

Nearly all of those who are fitting themselves at Ashburn for commissions in the aviation section of the signal corps of the central department, U. S. army, are from Chicago. All are within the age limits of twenty-one to thirty years. Capt. J. C. Morrow who is a member of the aviation section of the signal corps, and is chief aeronautical officer of the central department, says that the men are of a uniformly fine type, that they relish their work and have shown a splendid patriotic spirit in applying for enlistment. As many of them have left positions with big business concerns or have foregone finishing college work.

The Chicago aviation school is for men seeking commissions in the reserve corps of the aviation section of signal officers. Beside the station at Chicago one is operated at Mineola, Long Island. Six more stations are being equipped and will open in various sections of the country within a few weeks. These stations will train men only for the reserve corps. The training station for regular army men is at Santa Diego, Cal.

In charge of the Chicago station are Captain Arthur Christie and two assistants, Captain Ralph Boyce and Captain R. S. Brown. All are officers in the aviation section of the signal corps, United States army.

The men who are under training at Ashburn are given about six hours of instruction in flying, divided into lessons of about twenty minutes at a time, before they are allowed to operate a machine alone.

Instructors go with them at first, as they fly over the training field, and tell the novices how to steer and other things. The big bi-planes, the student-aviator sits in front, his instructor close behind him. There are two sets of controls on each airplane and if the untrained man handles his levers wrongly the skilled hand of the instructor corrects the error at once by using the auxiliary controls. After the student has had his full six hours of experimental training, in the short periods, he is "turned loose," as the aviators say, to finish his aerial education unaccompanied by an instructor.

The men have shown great receptivity and have soon been able to take care of themselves, according to Captain Morrow. He explained that the daily flying periods were made brief because experience had taught that as much, or more, could be learned in them by the student as could be learned in longer periods and because it had been learned that in other ways the short period accomplished more.

The term necessary for study and practice before the student is ready for his commission averages about five months. The things in which they will have to "make good" before they can be accepted in the reserve are:

Climb out of a field 2,000 feet square and attain an altitude of 500 feet, keeping all parts of the machine inside the square during the climb.

Glide at a normal angle with motor shut off, spiral to right and left, and change direction of gliding.

Cut off motor at 1,000 feet altitude and land within 200 feet of a designated point.

Land over an imaginary obstacle ten feet high and come to rest within 1,500 feet of it.

Make cross-country, triangular flight of thirty miles, passing two designated points, at a minimum altitude of 2,500 feet.

Make straightaway cross-country flight of thirty miles, landing at a specified spot, both outward and return trips to be at a height of 2,500 feet.

Fly forty-five minutes at a height of 1,000 feet.

If the candidate for a commission can pass all these tests he will be accepted, provided all other qualifications, physical and mental, be met. All candidates must weigh not more than 150 pounds, must be of good moral character and must have a college education.

When a sufficient number of reserve aviators have been trained they will be organized in squadrons which will be officered by men from the reserve corps. The government will furnish airplanes, motor-trucks, tools and all other supplies so that, when called out, the reserve organizations will be distinct units with their own officers and men.

LITERBERRY WOMAN'S MISSIONS SOCIETY MET

Mrs. D. K. McCarty Hostess at Profrida Meeting Tuesday—Plans for Work Taken Up—Rev. Mr. Crabtree in Farewell Service—Other Literary Happenings.

Literberry, May 30.—The third meeting of the Woman's American Missions Society was held Tuesday afternoon at Sunshine Cafeteria in Chicago. Mrs. D. K. McCarty, hostess, presided.

The program followed: Song—From Greenland's Icy Mountains. Miss Edith Scribner took for the Bible reading a collection of missionary references.

Mrs. W. E. Murray, of Chicago, read a paper on "The Woman's Mission in the Home." Mrs. W. E. Murray, of Chicago, read a paper on "The Woman's Mission in the Home."

Roll call was answered in different ways. When the name of the youngest member was called she answered, "I am here." When the name of the oldest member was called she answered, "I am here."

After a half and a half was spent in reading aloud from the very interesting book "The Woman's Mission in the Home," the members reading by turns.

Some new plans were taken up. Giving out books for the coming month. Offering, $5.00.

Refreshments.

Charles Radford is the new member. Mrs. J. M. Daniels gave valuable assistance in preparing and serving luncheon. Mr. Warren Daniels is another helper. Every member had a part to perform and there were no shirks. All afternoon, D. K. McCarty, hostess, could not get away from the happy stories. Absent members were missed and remembered and their absence regretted.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The student at the Baptist church Saturday night given in honor of Rev. E. M. Crabtree, was a success in every way.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Young and children are visiting in Springfield.

Rev. J. E. Ennis of Athens, La., and his wife and mother are visiting in Greenville, Ill., visited Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Ennis of Chicago.

We of the Baptist Sunday school were favored on Sunday morning with some good violin music. The performer was Miss Mildred Lindholm, a nine-year-old girl. This little Miss, while using her violin, stands at ease, handles the bow and the keys correctly and watches her music closely. We believe she will make a fine violinist.

Rev. Crabtree preached morning and evening at the Baptist church last Sunday. His subject for the morning hour was "Father's Day," which means prayer to the Heavenly Father, who never forgets his children. In the evening the Rev. gentleman gave a farewell talk to his members, which was fully appreciated. We believe brother Crabtree is sorry to leave Literature.

As S. H. Crum, wife and Mrs. J. M. Litter were driving home Sunday night from church the horse insisted on keeping near the sidewalk, striking the phone brace, tilting the buggy on one side and spilling Mrs. Litter to the ground. The striking her head and shoulder in such a way as to shake her up considerably, but not seriously hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Crum kept their places in the buggy and escaped injury.

We are obligated to Mrs. W. E. Murray and Mrs. Samuel Dinwiddie for tasty and pretty birthday presents.

London, May.—Brigadier-General Brankner of the Royal Flying Corps at a luncheon given in honor of General Jan Christian Smuts, said that in air fighting Great Britain had gained very definitely the upper hand over the Germans. He suggested that not long after the war a line of airplanes would be established traveling between London and Copenhagen by way of the Nile.

RECIPES GIVEN FOR WAR TIME ECONOMY DISHES

Miss Bess Breckon and Young Women At University of Wisconsin Served Unique Luncheon—Alfalfa Bread and Baked Soy Beans Proved Appetizing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Breckon have recently received a letter from their daughter, Miss Bess Breckon, who is director of the department of home economics at the University of Wisconsin, giving details of a "war time luncheon" recently served. This luncheon was served in connection with the third conference on printing and newspaper publishing recently held at Madison.

The letter to Mr. Breckon came in answer to some inquiries they had made about this luncheon. Miss Breckon gave the facts about the conference, together with recipes for various articles on the menu served, including alfalfa bread, baked soy bean soup, and baked soy beans. The recipes are of special interest at this time when home economics are so much discussed. The letter and recipes follow:

Madison, Wisconsin, May 27, 1917.

Dear Mother and Father:

I am pleased at your interest in the "War Economy" luncheon which my girls served to the State Journalistic Association of Wisconsin in the parlors of Lathrop Hall, last week. My class in institutional management, consisting of students of various grades, had charge of the food. All of which, was done in the new Economics Building and transported in one of the University trucks, to Lathrop Hall—a distance of possibly half a mile. The number served was one hundred twenty-five. When luncheon was over, we were swamped with requests for samples, to take home for any other reason. I am sure the alfalfa bread put up in boxes, wedding cake fashion and sold them, we would have made enough money to buy Liberty Bonds.

The enclosed menu was served just as it is printed, with the exception of the salad. We were unable to get enough cream to serve such a large number, so we substituted "greens" made from rhubarb leaves. They were just washed, dropped into boiling, salted water, and boiled from five to ten minutes—depending upon the toughness of the leaves. We served three of oil to one of vinegar. I served two radishes one side of the salad plate, more for the color effect than for any other reason. I seem to be taking all my time in giving petty explanations instead of the recipes which you asked for.

SO YEBAN SOUP.

Black Soy Bean Soup—1 pint black soy bean, 2 quarts water, cold, 1 small onion, 2 stalks celery, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 lemon, 1 1/2 teaspoons pepper, 1/4 teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup oil, 1/2 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup corn meal, 1/2 cup wheat flour, 1/2 cup barley flour, 1/2 cup water, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1 tablespoon salt, 1/2 yeast cake.

Boil milk and water and cool; add molasses, salt, and yeast with a little cold water; stir in barley flour and flour which have been sifted together. Knead to a soft dough, adding more flour if necessary. Cover and let it rise until the mixture is twice its bulk. Knead a second time form into sticks, place in well greased pans and let it rise again until dough is very nearly doubled its bulk. Bake in a hot oven fifteen minutes.

Baked Yellow Soy Beans—1 1/2 cups yellow soy beans, 1 cup white beans, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 tablespoon mustard, 1 small onion, 1/2 pound salt pork. Soak beans twelve hours, put into baking dish, in which the onion, salt pork, sugar, and mustard have been placed. Cover with cold water, and cook in slow oven at least twelve hours. Add water as needed.

Johnny Cakes—1 cup white flour, 1 cup white corn meal, 1/2 cup sugar, or buttermilk, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 egg, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons melted fat, oil.

Mix all the dry ingredients, add milk, melted fat and egg well beaten. It will be necessary to knead slightly more or less than one and one half cups of milk. The batter must be thin, as this is a corn meal griddle cake. This amount will make eight large servings.

BREAD FROM ALFALFA.

Alfalfa Bread—1 cup liquid 1/2 milk, 1/2 water, 1/2 compressed yeast cake, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 cup plus, our this consists of one part ground, dried alfalfa leaves, to seven parts whole wheat only.

Mix according to the usual quick-process method, shape in small loaves and bake about forty-five minutes for the loaf. Badger Milk Sherbet—This was just an ordinary lemon milk sherbet—using skim-milk, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup melted fat (oleo).

Mix all the dry ingredients, except soda. Beat eggs, mix with milk and molasses, add to dry ingredients. Add beaten eggs, melted fat, and dissolved soda. Mix and bake in a moderate oven. This will make from forty to fifty loaves, in sized cakes. We made our clover flour by sifting dry clover-ordinary cow food variety.

We secured our dried alfalfa flour from N. C. Peter, Mill Company, Omaha, Nebraska. If I remember correctly, it cost us six cents a pound, is not so pleasing to the palate, but one can easily acquire a taste for it—just as many people have to learn to care for the genuine Milwaukee "all ry" bread. The barley sticks were not half bad, and the wheat bread was absolutely the best I have ever eaten. It is certainly worth while to know the possibilities in these uncommon products. We may be forced to eat less desirable foods than these before the war is over.

The menu was given so much newspaper publicity in this state, sample letters for the recipes are only one of many that I have received.

I am considering accepting an appointment which came this week from the University of Kentucky for next year. It is I may go to Lexington in the early summer—that will mean a stop with you earlier than I had planned. However, I am not sure that I will be more comfortable close to these Wisconsin links than I am here. I am sure that I will not move that results with you with the recipes as given. You might be successful in making your own alfalfa flour from that grown on our farm last year.

Until Death Do Us Part

(A Memorial Day Story.)

As Col. Langworthy was walking in front of his headquarters one evening he was accosted by a stalwart African who said imploringly:

"Am you de Mas'r kunnel?"

"Yes, I am that officer."

"Oh Mas'r kunnel! Use run away from Mas'r Stewart and ef he gits me back he'll kill me shoe. Oh say, Mas'r kunnel; jest take me wid you an see how good I'll be. Oh Mas'r kunnel; I'll make yer horse shine; keep yer close clean and be so good. Won't ye take me, Mas'r kunnel?"

A heart of adamant would have been moved by the appeal and as Col. Langworthy really did need a servant he told his orderly to look after the fugitive for the night and bring him around next morning. The runaway gave the name of Pomp Stewart. He slept little that night as freedom seemed near and was ready to report early next morning and was afraid to duty and must faithfully do to serve his new master.

A small command of Confederates had camped twelve miles distant and being well high surrounded by the swamp felt secure but one night Pomp guided a few companies thru a hidden way and caused the surprise and capture of the whole force and was henceforth quite a hero. He was always faithful and no task was too hard; no burden too heavy; no duty too severe, while he well high worshipped Col. Langworthy as the greatest hero living.

But a sore trial awaited his devotion. In a bloody battle Col. Langworthy fell severely wounded. The day was hot and to try to rescue him would have been well high certain death. He lay tortured with pain and consumed with a venging thirst praying that he might die when suddenly a black hand was laid on his shoulder and a canteen of water pressed to his lips and he saw before him the servant so loyal.

"Why Pomp," said he, "What are you doing here? Get right away for there's no use of us both being killed."

"I can't leave you here, Mas'r kunnel."

"Do as I say; I beg of you."

Instead of going the faithful fellow turned his eyes to heaven and said, "Oh blessed Lawd. I knows you can do cherything. Now dear, blessed Lawd; won't ye jist turn dem rebel bullets de odder way till I gits de Mas'r kunnel safe away? Oh blessed Lawd; I does want so ter git de Mas'r kunnel out o' dis; please deah Lawd I does beg of ye."

Then with superhuman effort the brave fellow took up his human burden and started away just in time to escape the artillery which would have been certain death. A ball plowed thru his cheek; another thru the fleshy part of his arm and another thru his hip but he struggled on in spite of the protests of the colonel till just as they reached the ambulance corps a cruel cannon ball took off his leg and the two dropped in a heap.

There was silence a short time and even the stern judge found occasion to clear his throat and apply his handkerchief to his eyes.

Finally the prosecuting attorney arose and said, "May it please the court; I dismiss the case."

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT DEDICATED TODAY

Marinette, Wis., May 30.—The most impressive Memorial Day ceremonies ever carried out in this city were those leading up to and including the dedication of a soldiers' monument today. The memorial was presented to the city by former Senator Isaac Stephenson and has been erected on an island in the river between Marinette and Menominee. It consists of a 25-foot granite shaft surmounted by the figure of a soldier.

The men will be in charge of regular army officers during their entire stay at Urbana. Captain Charles C. Benedict of the United States Army Aviation corps has been detailed to the school as commanding officer. H. W. Miller, assistant dean of the College of Engineering is technical director of the courses.

The daily routine of the school has been established as follows:

6:00—1st call.

"Did I save de Mas'r kunnel?" moaned the dark man.

The drivers took the officer and would have left the servant but the colonel feebly drew his revolver and told them to take both or die.

The doctors pronounced the black man's wounds fatal but the colonel begged them to do their best for him. He was separated from his faithful man and supposed him dead. Slowly he recovered and was able to join his regiment a few months before the end of the war, when he returned home, resumed his law practice and rose to eminence at the bar.

One morning Col. Langworthy was chatting with his brother attorneys in the court room while waiting for the arrival of some witnesses in a prominent case when the prosecuting attorney announced he had a case which might be disposed of in a few minutes and save time and asked a hearing and was told to produce the prisoner who proved to be a colored man standing along on a wooden leg.

"What's the charge?"

"Burglary."

"Have you any one to defend you?"

"No, Mas'r judge," said the prisoner. "Ise got no friends and no money."

"Do you want to plead guilty?"

"No, Mas'r judge; Pomp Stewart hain't no bugler. I hain't done nuffin wrong; dey's got de wrong pussen."

"Is that all you have to say?"

"Yes, Mas'r judge; dat's all."

Suddenly there was a commotion in the court room as Col. Langworthy vaulted into the dock and placing his hand on the prisoner, shouted, "I have something to say. If this man goes to prison it is over my dead body."

"Listen. In a terrible battle I felt fearfully wounded, suffering untold pain and an agonizing thirst. Any attempt to rescue me would have meant certain death it seemed when suddenly, after hours waiting, I know not how long, I saw this man approaching me in that awful storm of shot and shell. I begged him to save himself but he gathered me on his shoulder and barely got away when flying artillery came that way which would have been certain death to me. That scar on his cheek was made by a rebel bullet; another went thru his arm; another thru his hip and that leg went last. I supposed he was dead long ago or I would have devoted my life to finding him. We were separated then but death alone will part us now."

Looking up with astonishment the prisoner said, "Am dat you, Mas'r kunnel? Bress de Lawd."

There was silence a short time and even the stern judge found occasion to clear his throat and apply his handkerchief to his eyes.

Finally the prosecuting attorney arose and said, "May it please the court; I dismiss the case."

"WHISTLE"

FIRST THOUGHT IS OF WIFE'S WELFARE

After Gaining Remarkable
Relief, Hitchens Advises
Helpmate to Try Tanlac

J. S. Hitchens, well known blacksmith of Litchberry, Ill., near here, has tried Tanlac, and is so firmly convinced of the new medicine's merits that he has advised his wife to begin its use at once.

"I have had stomach and kidney trouble for several years," Mr. Hitchens said on May 26 in explaining his recent case to the Tanlac Man. "Gas formations and bloating and a very uncomfortable feeling invariably followed my meals. My kidneys were weak and irregular."

The statements in Jacksonville newspapers given by some of my friends finally led me to try Tanlac. I certainly feel greatly improved since taking two bottles of the medicine. Yes sir, I'm better in every way now. I'm not bothered so much with the gas formations and bloating after meals now and my kidneys are in much better shape. I'm going to have my wife take Tanlac for her nervousness. I feel sure it will benefit her."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Jacksonville at the Coover-Shreve Drug Co., East Side store, where a special Tanlac representative is explaining the new medicine to the public daily. Tanlac also may be obtained at the West Side store of the Coover-Shreve Drug Co. It is sold in Waverly at the Wyle Drug Co.; in New Berlin at the New Berlin Drug Co.; in Ashland at H. O. Brownback's; in Versailles at A. G. Bates' and in Chapin at F. P. McKinney's.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious
Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. NELLIE FISHBAC, 1521 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.

SOLDIER DEAD HONORED BY LARGE ASSEMBLAGE

HEAVY RAIN INTERFERED TO SOME EXTENT WITH DECORATION
DAY PLANS.

Attendance at Church Service Large
But Parade Feature Was Abandoned—Patriotic Music Had Important
Place in Exercises—H. H. Bancroft in Notable Address Discussed Present Day War Affairs As Well as Past Years.

The veterans of Matt Starr post G. A. R. were bitterly disappointed yesterday morning as they heard the rain falling but hoped in vain that it would clear up before noon. Decoration day had come and unusually fine preparations had been made for it but the program was only partially carried out. Flowers had been supplied most generously and in the morning the carryall from the Jacksonville State Hospital was on hand to take them to Calvary and Diamond Grove cemeteries. To the former Comrades Virginioist and Kehoe went and to the latter Comrades John Minter, Dan Summers, R. R. Stevenson, Robert Mawson, John Brown and Thomas Reese went along with Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Wells, and Mrs. Weber. The sexton placed the flags and the graves were suitably decorated.

In the afternoon the G. A. R. hall was well filled with comrades and ladies of the Relief Corps hoping for a cessation of the rain. A splendid drum corps had been secured and consisted of John Devlin, fire; Arthur Ellis, tenor drum and Robert Lorton, bass drum. They practiced and played in a manner leaving nothing to be desired but the rain would persist in falling.

Finally the drops ceased and making a break for the church all went well the drums beating and the life doing nobly and it seemed as if success was sure when suddenly the clouds were opened again and the drums had to seek shelter but Mr. Devlin kept bravely on despite the rain and conducted the marchers to Centenary church.

The services were about fifteen minutes late in beginning owing to the waiting of the veterans and the ladies for better weather. The church was very handsomely decorated and there was an unexpectedly good audience and all were well repaid for attending as the exercises were of a superior order of merit. S. W. Nichols presided.

After prayer by Rev. J. O. Kirkpatrick, "America" was sung by the audience, Miss Myrtle Larrimore at the organ and T. H. Rapp leading the singing. Supt. Perrin read Gen. Logan's decoration day order and then Miss Mabel Mathews sang in a highly accomplished manner "The Star Spangled Banner," the audience joining in the chorus. Dr. Harker read Lincoln's Gettysburg address and Miss Mamie Kennedy of the Woman's College recited a selection.

Cold Settled In His Back

"Foley Kidney Pills always give me prompt relief."—Ed Volson, Rogers, Okla.
Ed Volson, of Rogers, Okla., writes: "I have used Foley Kidney Pills for backache, the result of catching cold which settled in my back. Foley Kidney Pills always give me prompt relief and I can cheerfully recommend them."

The reason Foley Kidney Pills act so satisfactorily is because they neutralize and dissolve the poisonous waste matter that remains in the blood. The kidneys do not do their work properly in filtering and casting out from the system acid and other poisons.

Backache follows in a few days and such symptoms as pain in the sides or back, stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatism, too frequent action of the bladder at night, and other painful and annoying ailments disappear. Foley Kidney Pills contain no harmful ingredients. They are safe as well as quick acting.

"The Star Spangled Banner," showing fine ability.

H. H. Bancroft then delivered the oration of the day and it was truly an effort of unusual merit, receiving nothing but words of praise from every one. The major part of the address is printed herewith.

T. H. Rapp led in singing "Red, White and Blue," the audience joining in the chorus. As usual the gentleman pleased every one with his superb voice.

Citizens had been unusually liberal in providing automobiles but Commander Paul deemed it wise not to try to carry out the program at Jacksonville cemetery as a few comrades and ladies went and decorated the graves.

Decoration Day Significance.

Mr. Bancroft said in part:
Again we are engaged in the solemn and patriotic service of another Decoration Day, a ceremonial day peculiar to American history and tradition. It has been the custom in several countries of the old world to decorate the graves of soldiers but in no other land is such tribute paid to the memory of departed heroes as we pay in free America on May 30th of each succeeding year, and it is a crowning glory of our civilization that as decade follows decade, it finds our devotion to Memorial Day undiminished. May hearts loyal and true ever find inspiration in the observance of this anniversary.

Veterans of the greatest internecine conflict of which the pages of history record. It is worthy to note that with but a single exception this anniversary day has been observed with the nation in a condition of profound peace and unexampled prosperity. Respect and recognition abroad, concord and comfort at home have heretofore added distinction to its celebration.

On this day it has been our custom as a people to be retrospective. We have renewed proudly the glories of the past, the conquests of other days and in the contemplation of victories won and deeds of valor done, of loyalty in the ranks and of loyalty of leader in command we have been happy in the thought of the security and the serenity of our national existence.

True to the custom of the day, we will at this time turn our minds in retrospect, we will strew the beautiful garlands upon the graves of soldiers who fell fighting for the Union, honored dead, we will pay our tribute of respect to the soldier living; all this we will do and gladly but with retrospection alone you and I today, as citizens of the nation you risked your all to preserve, dare not stop.

There has been a great lesson to learn in the observance of each and every one of the Decoration Days of the past but the significance of the Decoration Day of 1917 surpasses them all in the depth of meaning it has for us as a people. Through its observance to be sure we shall pay the homage due the soldier of the sixties living and dead and through its observance also, we must gather inspiration for a new test in patriotism and arouse ourselves to a realization of the awful fact that triumphant democracy as we know it and practice is again endangered.

We have been wont on Decoration Day, to talk about a war that was, today we are mindful of a war that was and a war that is.

Loyal Company of Defenders.

The quiet disbanding of nearly three million men in arms at the close of the Civil war is one of the startling facts of history, a most interesting phenomenon keenly observed and commented upon by the statesmen of that day in all parts of the world. You, the members of Matt Starr Post, thru whose invitation I have the honor to be the speaker on this occasion, had a part in the accomplishment of that remarkable achievement. In war and in peace you have given generously of your services and we honor you today for what you have been and for what you are, a loyal company of defenders. Your lives were spared to behold the joyous day of a reunited country and you have been privileged participants in its glorious progress to this present hour. You have been permitted to partake of the rewards of your patriotic tasks so well performed and you can rest secure in the satisfaction that the services given and sacrifices made by you and your comrades in arms, living and dead, will ever be held in grateful remembrance.

The war between the states saw three million men in arms. Secession raised its head in the south only to be put down by the victorious armies of the north. Economic and political differences linked with the great question of human slavery were the basic causes of the conflict, and the question whether a government of associated individuals is strong enough to hold together under stress of an internal crisis was the fundamental issue settled by the warring hosts. The struggle began with an untrained volunteer citizen soldiery and closed with both sides possessing hardy and disciplined troops guided by seasoned commanders. Early enlistments were short, later enlistments were for three years and the war there were those who enlisted as privates who came out major generals.

Lincoln, Grant and Logan.

What a place our beloved Illinois had in this mighty struggle. It gave to the nation the immortal Lincoln, martyr and central figure of the war, who emerged from the awful stress and strain of executive office and power, a world character and who has rightfully taken his place among the world's immortals. The indomitable Grant came from Illinois. In his hands was finally committed command of all the armies of the north and after president, war secretary, cabinet, and war council had exerted all their strength this chieftain proved the wisdom of his choice and when at Appomattox he handed back the sword tendered him in surrender by the gallant Lee, the great hearted manhood of his character asserted itself and with malice, revenge and all thought of punishment absent from his mind he voiced the sentiment of all hearts when with calm demeanor and deep conviction he spoke the words, "Let us have peace."

I would link with these two names today the name of Gen. John A. Logan, who stirred lukewarm hearts in southern Illinois with the power of his argument caused wavering minds everywhere he spoke to stand by the government at Washington and later led the battalions in line of battle with courage, endurance and spirit undimmed and the greatest of the general of the war. What a Trinity this and what heritage for the citizens of Illinois to be proud of.

Again Illinois had in war Gov. Richard Yates, a staunch supporter of the Union, a timely and considerate friend of the private soldier. He proved a tower of strength to the government at Washington and the commonwealth he served takes just pride in remembrance of the fact that a strong minded, courageous and loyal chief executive served the state when such service was so much demanded.

After War Honors.

After war honors also came to Illinois. Our state has the distinction of being the home of the first Grand Army of the Republic, Voltaire, the fighting parson, once a resident of Jacksonville, and his companion in the effort, Dr. Stephenson of Decatur, took the first steps that led to the organization of your own great order, greatest and most influential of all army societies or associations.

In General John A. Logan, Illinois was again honored thru the proclamation he issued May 5, 1868, as commander in Chief of the Grand Army in language most appropriate he called upon all members of the order to join in commemorating the soldier dead and fixed upon May 30th as the date to cherish their memories and treasure up their deeds.

The Vicksburg Monument.

Matt Starr Post has been honored thru its membership by having a part in the erection of that enduring emblem, now world famed monument, in marble and bronze at Vicksburg. This memorial temple to the sons of Illinois costing $250,000 resembles the Pantheon in style.

The site upon which the monument stands is the highest rise of ground between Cairo and New Orleans and is about the center of the line of General Logan's division during the siege. Judge Thomas B. O'ear, a member of Matt Starr Post had the personal honor and honored his post by conspicuous service on the Vicksburg monument commission not only as a member but as treasurer of the commission.

Monument At Andersonville.

Due to initiative, energy and determination of another member of Matt Starr Post there is standing in southland another memorial in marble to the sons of Illinois. I refer to the Andersonville monument in Georgia commemorative of the Illinois prisoners who suffered untold misery there.

Fifteen thousand dollars was appropriated by the state of Illinois for this memorial and five commissioners were appointed by Governor Chas. S. Deneen. Capt. J. M. Swales of Matt Starr Post was one of those commissioners. The monument was dedicated with fitting ceremony in 1912. I have often thought what a feeling of satisfaction there must have been to the members of this commission, all ex-prisoners, to have had a part in paying this honor to the soldiers who were victims of one of the Civil war's most dreadful experiences.

Morgan County Monument.

Now in the fullness of time you are engaged not as individuals in service on monument commissions but as a Post your thoughts have turned to the contemplation of a monument nearer home. The Morgan County Monument association has been organized and is actively at work and on this occasion is serving you most acceptably in the responsible position of chairman of that association.

Nation In War Again.

I said in my introduction that we were accustomed to celebrate Decoration Day with the nation at peace, with the people enjoying the blessing of a righteous peace. How different our celebration today. We are at war. The country is in turmoil. War and preparation for war is everywhere in contemplation. The past no longer claims all our attention. Selective conscription day is just ahead of us. Our troops have been ordered to a foreign field, our navy is already active off foreign coasts. The tocsin of war with all its meaning has been sounded and soon we will be a country in arms again. Thank God there is no division within our borders. When we come forward it will be with no north, no south, no east, no west but one country grand and undivided, united and uniformed alike ready for the service and sacrifice of the hour.

Supremacy of Democracy.

Admonished by Washington in his farewell address to avoid entangling alliances abroad, we have sedulously heeded the advice given. We have developed our own great territorial limits and resources and our country has been the haven to which mankind in all the world might seek a home and happiness.

Causes of World War.

But we are led to ask ourselves what are the causes of this World War. Was it the murder of an Austrian Archduke in Serbia? Was the firing upon Fort Sumpter the cause of the Civil war? The murder of the Archduke was simply the spark that touched off the conflagration. The shot fired upon Fort Sumpter was merely an incident in a smoldering fire of fury that had long been gathering between north and south. Woven into the conflict were many honest differences of opinion. So in this World War the assassination of the Austrian Archduke, regrettable and unjustifiable as murder always is, while significant was not primary. Farther back than that the real causes of strife and dissension had been at work and came forth into action thru the medium of the Serbian tragedy.

Accept Dictum of Leaders.

But who is there that can give an answer that will satisfy every mind? As a people we bow in obedience to constituted authority and accept the dictum of our President and the statesmen in congress.

It shocks us, however, to even think that the blood of our soldiers may be poured out on foreign battlefields, we who as a people have lived for so long so peaceably within our own borders, we who are free from any charge of territorial acquisition, we who have been faithful to the admonition of Washington to avoid entangling alliances with European countries. What becomes of the Monroe Doctrine after this war? Is long established precedent to be ruthlessly disregarded? Where is the answer to be found? Have you had faith in the patriotism and wisdom of President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Elihu Root, Robert Lansing, Henry Cabot Lodge, Senator Kenyon, Governor Lowden and scores of others who have been leaders in our public life? Then have faith in them now.

Financial Side of War.

War, horrible thought! We say it has no rightful place in our modern civilization. The Declaration of Independence is 141 years old and the people that proclaimed it have waged war five times and each time successfully. Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration declared that "The tree of liberty must be watered every thirty years with the blood of either patriots or tyrants. Divide 141 by 5 and you have 28. Take the figures for whatever they may be worth."

Listen friends, from 1789 to 1909 71.5 per cent of the income of the U. S. had been spent for wars past, present and future. Up to 1909 during the entire life of the republic the U. S. had spent for all purposes $21,518,000,000 of which $16,567,000,000 was devoted to militarism, that is about $3 out of every $4 spent on war or preparation for war.

The cost of the Civil war was reckoned in 1879 with only one-cent of the pensions paid at $6,190,000,000. We begin this war with a Liberty Loan of $7,000,000,000, the largest loan ever authorized by any country and a proposed war tax bill of $1,570,000,000, the greatest war tax bill in the history of any nation.

Great Britain is now spending $30,000,000 each day and plans to spend over $10,000,000,000 in prosecuting the war for the next year. Today England's national debt is $19,000,000,000. Her national per capita debt amounts to $433.

On April 1, 1917 the bonded debt of the U. S. was $1,023,000,000 and our per capita debt was only $10. Add to our present debt the Liberty Loan of $7,000,000,000 and we have a total bonded debt of $8,000,000,000 and a per capita debt of $80.

THE DAY IN NEW YORK

New York, May 30.—Memorial Day in the metropolis was converted into an all-day demonstration of patriotism, featured by extraordinary efforts to boost the recruiting lists and the sale of the liberty loan bonds. All public offices remained closed for the day and private business was largely suspended. War veterans, soldiers and sailors of the regular service, civic bodies and patriotic organizations combined to form a great parade. Thousands attended the exercises at the soldiers and sailors' monument on Riverside Drive. Services at nearly all of the cemeteries in the metropolitan district were conducted under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic and affiliated societies.

Wanted—Young man (married preferred) to learn laundry work. Apply Barrs Laundry.

SAN FRANCISCO OBSERVES DAY

San Francisco, Cal., May 30.—Memorial Day was observed in San Francisco by the decoration of the graves of veterans in the National and Odd Fellows' cemeteries, and the strewing of flowers on the ocean as a tribute to the men of the navy who perished at sea.

BLUE AND GRAY JOIN IN EXERCISES

Little Rock, Ark., May 30.—Blue and gray joined here today and marched to the National cemetery, where the graves of both sides were decorated. Many members of the officers' reserve corps in training at Fort Logan H. Root participated.

Looking To The Future.
In the preparation of this address I have had three viewpoints in mind, the past, present and the future. Having discussed with you the past and the present I now come briefly and in conclusion to the future.

Notwithstanding its horrors and miseries, war has been one of the great factors in shaping the destiny of nations and development of character of men," declared the Hon. W. J. Calhoun, a distinguished son of Illinois. "I am not an advocate of war."

Demands Of Democracy.

Finally friends let me express the fond hope that it may be the destiny of our great country in this tremendous international cataclysm of war and destruction to be so used that partisan bias shall be swept to the four winds and with a united purpose may our actions be so well and wisely timed that we shall save civilization and the world from its own folly and bring about peace and concord where there is now chaos and desperation.

Fellow citizens we esteem freedom too lightly. We glorify democracy but we do not often take into account the price paid for it. Democracy is not a state once attained that remains perpetual. Democracy makes its demands as well as autocracy. Democracy means equality of obligation as well as equality of opportunity. If you and I do not meet these demands then Democracy as a principle of government is weakened not strengthened by your citizenship and mine. Fellow citizens we do not view the present situation with serious enough mind. We have been asking one another in a casual way, "Do you think we will have war?" Today we awake out of our lethargy and find the horrible consequences of such a declaration facing every one of us.

What the task imposed upon us collectively and individuals "the future only can tell. We sincerely believe that as in the past in times of peace and progress we have been the medium through which vast multitudes have learned the lesson of our civilization through the power and opportunity of our benevolent influences and our benign institutions so in the present time of tumult of war our mission will still turn out to be one of benevolent action and effort to the end that the principle of real Democracy and freedom may rise triumphant despite resort to the guage of battle.

We cherish not hatred of Germany in this World War. We remember gratefully the services of Baron Von Steuben, the drill master of Washington's army to whom there now stands in the capital of the nation a fitting monument commemorative of his valued service. We remember to honor today General Franz Sigel, General Osterhaus and the loyal citizens of German birth and lineage who were your comrades in arms in the sixties. In science, in music, in education, in learning of all kinds Germany and her people command our highest respect. But we are antagonistic on the question of the proper observance of the laws of nations and on the question of the form of government best suited for the individual's happiness and freedom.

For a long period as a nation we have been undisturbed in our efforts to gain commercial greatness. Today our ascendancy is undisputed. Our wealth is greater than any other nation and this fact brings with it a great responsibility. Let us remember that gold bullion alone will not keep alive the soul of the nation and that our entry into this warfare may be the means of recementing us as a nation and letting us see the folly of a disregard for national duty, which is destructive of the very government itself.

Every great war has established some great principle, says President Hadley of Yale college and he has expressed the opinion that this war will establish the principle that character and performance must go hand in hand, that morals and brains must be conjoined and that a civilization which attempts to base itself on either to the exclusion of the other is fundamentally incomplete.

As a people let us answer the present call to duty unselfishly and with unswerving loyalty in such ways as the call may come from day to day following the admonition of our president to stand, speak, act and serve together.

And may the institutions that our flag typifies, the constitution it protects and the democracy it safeguards live forever.

NOTES.

At the last moment Comrade Jordan was unable to act as chief marshal according to appointment and Capt. John E. Wright took his place and like a true soldier kept at his duties till his clothes were well soaked with the rain.

It is proper to say that the excellent drum corps largely assembled thru the efforts and suggestions of Robert Lutton and had the day been pleasant the marching music would have been all right. People were pleased by the excellent playing of John Devlin. His instrument isn't exactly a life but it is a good one well handled. Arthur Ellis is a first class tenor drummer and the three made a drum corps which was all right.

The generous turnout of automobiles in spite of the rain was truly most gratifying and to the owners and all others who aided in making the day a success the thanks of the post are due.

WHITE HALL PREPARES FOR REGISTRATION DAY

Boa'd Fully Organized and Special Demonstration May be Held—
Mrs. Hudson Bared Tuesday—
Other White Hall Notes.

White Hall, May 30.—Dr. R. A. Hamilton attended the sessions of the Illinois Osteopathic Association at Galesburg last week, and reports the proceedings as greatly advancing the science. The attendance was large and enthusiastic.

Miss Lillian Boehm has returned from a brief sojourn at Wichita, Kansas.

Dr. A. E. Meisenbach and son Edward arrived from St. Louis Tuesday to remain over Decoration Day.

Mayor Boehm is considering the subject of holding some sort of a demonstration in connection with registration day on June 5th. The board of registration has been organized in full for White Hall, and is as follows: District No. 1, J. W. Campbell, Lee Vinyard, W. W. Davis; No. 2, E. C. Pearce, T. A. Kessler, C. A. Whiteside; No. 3, John Singleton, Jr., P. J. Tucker, A. J. Johnson.

Mrs. Etna A. Hudson, wife of Eugene Hudson, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Bauer, in White Hall, at 6:30 a. m. Sunday. She was taken ill last week with heart trouble. She had spent the greater part of her time at the Bauer home in town during the term of school, which was attended by her son. Her age was nearly 57 years, and her entire life had been spent as a resident of Walkerville. She was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church White Hall, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and were largely attended, there being a number present from Carrollton. The interment was in the White Hall cemetery. The husband and one son and one daughter survive.

Wanted—Girls for general laundry work. Experience not necessary. Good wages for good working girls. Barrs Laundry.

TABLET TO REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER

Butler, Pa., May 30.—A tablet erected to the memory of Gen. Richard Butler, a celebrated soldier of the Revolution and in honor of whose memory this city was named, was unveiled here today with interesting exercises conducted under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution. General Butler was born in Ireland, the eldest of four brothers, all noted soldiers in the American Revolution. He served with distinction through the entire war, and in 1791 he was made a brigadier-general and commanded the right wing in the St. Clair expedition against the Indians. He was killed and scalped in the disastrous engagement of Nov. 14, 1791.

MEMORIAL DAY IN FRANCE.

Paris, May 30.—The French people joined with the Americans here today in the observance of the American day. Thousands of men, women and children made a pilgrimage to the grave of Lafayette, where a program of impressive exercises was carried out. Various organizations in Paris and at the front decorated the graves of the hundreds of Americans who have given up their lives in the present war.
